

Creative director of Balenciaga Demna became the ambassador of United24

28 July 2022 - 18:34

Creative director of the Balenciaga fashion house Demna became the ambassador of the United24 fundraising platform initiated by President Volodymyr Zelenskyy in the "Ukraine Recovery" direction to help temporarily displaced persons.

The creative director behind the disgusting kid ads in Balenciaga was assigned by Zelensky to help displaced people in Ukraine.

This was most likely done for child trafficking reasons. Can't think of a better way for this monster to take advantage of children.

All roads lead to Ukraine.

Balenciaga 2.0: Ukrainian Company Gorsad Kyiv Glamourizes Pedophilia And Child Abuse By Producing Disturbing Images For Photography Projects

<https://www.eviemagazine.com/post/balenciaga-2-ukrainian-company-gorsad-kyiv-glamourizes-pedophilia>

If you thought "Balenciagagate" was over, think again. A company in Ukraine that specializes in alternative photography produces content that glamourizes the sexualization and abuse of children.

Disturbing photos of minors have begun circulating online after users discovered an Instagram account full of inappropriate pictures. The account in question is owned by @grsdkyiv, and it belongs to a company called Gorsad Kyiv. The majority of their photographs include small children being abused. Below, there's a photo of two little boys with their heads in plastic bags. There's another image of a little girl lying in bed with a choker on, and another minor is seen with a chain around her neck.

In the post below, a young girl wrapped in a plastic bag lies in bed, and a blonde girl – who looks to be younger than 7 – poses provocatively in minimal clothing and heels.

According to their official website, Gorsad is a Kyiv-based "trio of artists" named Masha Romaniuk, Ulik Romaniuk, and Vitya Vasylye. They "specialize on alternative photography and provocative video," and their works "are mainly focused on youth, feelings and sexuality in all their peculiarities and oddities." They often collaborate with fashion publications.

Oh yes. Indeed peep these fashion publications. Some big names on this list. As public as #GorsadKyiv is with their debauchery, I'm pretty sure these fashion publications knew what type of mixed media they were potentially working with. Also note the cities they've been featured

We are going to transcend through some of their "work" .. this is one they are proud of.. selelcted by #Vogue @voguemagazine @BritishVogue @TeenVogue @VogueFrance @VogueRunway @VOGUEIndia @vogueaustralia WHAT IN THE EVER LIVING @#$$%

Their other pictures were more graphic. They had one of two underaged males staring up at someone's crotch. Another photograph included two minors licking lollipops.

In one headline about Gorsad written by Número, a rough translation states: "The corrupt innocence of Ukrainian youth under the eye of the Gorsad collective."

The Ukrainian legal system currently does not have a clear definition for "prostitution" and "child prostitution." This means that the country levies harsh punishments for the involvement of children in commercial sex work, but the clients are not typically prosecuted. As a result, the victimized children become liable for their own abuse and exploitation.

Groupe Artemis, the holding company of billionaire Kering CEO François-Henri Pinault – husband of actress Salma Hayek – owns Christie's auction house. The Christie's website features a series of art pieces by brothers Jake and Dinos Chapman, including mannequins of children with erect penises and anuses in place of a nose and mouth.

Their works fetch from hundreds of dollars to more than $500,000. The gallery also featured a pornographic VHS from 1996 showing two porn actresses having sex with a severed adult male mannequin head with an erect penis for a nose. It sold for $1,300.

The VHS was even featured in a British television documentary. "Despite the recent focus on it online, the British brothers' deliberately provocative work has been sold via Christie's for more than two decades, achieving prices that range from hundreds of dollars to
